once in those two dreadful weeks did we feel any degree of safety. Not once in these long, anxious, tedious, fearful days did we find one moment of real rest or comfort. Although we brought our makes comfort. Atthough we brought our secan chairs all the way with us from Honan to Hankow, my husband was obliged to use a mule cart on part of the journey and when we were passing through the mountains he was pushed along in a wheelbarrow for many, many miles. No it didn't seem one bit funny to me, I can assure you, and I know that Mr. Stokke
